Local Women's Club Receives National Honors

Chesapeake, VA—The Chesapeake Republican Women's Club has been awarded a Silver Club Achievement Award from the National Federation of Republican Women.

The award recognizes excellence in membership development, campaign activities, community relations, programs and club functions. The award was presented during the National Federation of Republican Women's 35th biennial convention in Orlando, Florida earlier this month.

More than 1,300 Republican women leaders from across the nation participated. The event was one of the largest national gatherings of Republicans this year.

"We are especially pleased to receive this award on our 40th Anniversary," says Beth Banks, President of the Chesapeake Republican Women's Club. "Our members volunteer countless hours to make a positive difference in our community and our Commonwealth. It is rewarding to be recognized in this way."

About the Chesapeake Republican Women's Club

Founded in 1969, The Chesapeake Republican Women's Club brings together women of all ages, ethnicities and backgrounds who agree in principle with the ideals and values of the Republican Party. We work to positively impact the direction of our nation, our state and our local communities through recruiting, training, education, advocacy, activism and empowering women in the political process.
